

Welcome to the
Turner House Times

October 2009 / Volume 9

Dear Friends,

A lot of good things are happening at Turner House: Movies on the Lawn is back; we've enjoyed two very successful Salon programs and are looking forward the final event in this series in November; and Shambhala Body Gallery is partnering with us in a very generous program. Details follow, so read on

Shambhala Body Gallery
Befriends Turner House

Shambhala Body Gallery in the Bishop Arts district has become a major supporter of the Society and Turner House. Owners Robert Ungemach and Keith Emmons recognize the value of Turner House in our community and are generously donating 10% of all their home fragrance sales during October, November and December to the OCSFA. All proceeds will be used for critical roof and exterior repairs. So, pop into Shambhala in Bishop Arts and buy someone an aromatic gift of a candle, room spray or reed sticks!

And watch for their move in November to a new, larger location at 415 S. Bishop Ave.

By Popular Demand: Movies on the Lawn Returns!

We've had many inquiries about Movies on the Lawn, and are happy to know that it's such a popular community event. So, we're pleased to announce that the Winnetka Heights Neighborhood Association is partnering with Turner House to bring you one evening of Movies on the Lawn this fall. Here are the details:

Note: there will not be a concessions stand, so bring all your drinks and snacks.

Turner House Salon Series Continues to Delight

We have two evenings of the Salon Series under our belt and the response from attendees has been extremely positive. "A View From Modern Architecture" presented by Kevin Sloan in September was engaging, accessible and edifying. Kevin gave us all a new way to approach modern structures. "A Feast of Italian Opera", a concert of Italian Opera arias and duets, was performed last week to a full house. Presented by Chris Barker, the program also featured Nicole MacPherson, Laura Penney and Juan Galvan. Martha Gerhart, provided piano accompaniment and narrative comments. People are still talking about what an amazing performance it was.

The final event is "Materials and Methods", an exhibition of Oak Cliff Artists curated by Kenda North which will be on Thursday, November 12th, from 7:30 - 9p. Kenda North is a resident of Stevens Park Estates and a Professor in photography at UT Arlington. The exhibit features Oak Cliff artists who work in diverse styles and media.

Tickets will be $15 for non-members, and $10 for Society members. Don't miss this series finale.
